Eagle Volleyball Coaches

Knowledge and Leadership

COACH PAUL SCHLOMER

Head Coach

Coach Schlomer just finished his tenth year leading the women's volleyball program at Edgewood College. This past season, his Eagle team finished with their fifth straight twenty-win season and third conference championship in four years.

Coach Schlomer continues to spend his off season as the head of the USAV Badger Region Girls' High Performance program where his teams have medaled four times at the National HP Championships the past five years, taking the gold in 2012. Coach Schlomer has a passion for coaching and loves to share his knowledge of volleyball with young athletes.

THE STAFF

The rest of the coaching staff will include current Edgewood College volleyball players along with other great players and high level coaches from around the Madison area. Our staff will provide a camp atmosphere that is fun and exciting, helping your kids to improve in every facet of their volleyball skills.

Eagle Volleyball Camps

Love for the Game

The purpose of the Edgewood College Eagles Volleyball Camps is to work with young players to develop their volleyball skills and their love for the game. Volleyball is a wonderful team sport that requires an immense amount of teamwork and dedication coupled with individual self-confidence and focus on technique.

I want to spend these camps working on both aspects of the game with each player. We take a great deal of time helping each individual improve her game along with teaching them how to apply those skills in a team concept. The end result will offer each player tools that they can use to help their teams achieve excellence.

I look forward to our camps this summer and a chance to work with committed young volleyball players.

Please contact me with any questions you may have, pschlomer@edgewood.edu or 608-663-3245.
