THIS WEEK - The No. 19 USC women's soccer team returns to the Coliseum for a Pac-12 play as they host Arizona on Friday at 12:30 p.m.

GAME 8 - No. 19 USC (3-3-1, 2-3) vs. Arizona (6-3, 1-3) - Friday, March 26, 12:30 p.m. PT (LA Memorial Coliseum) - Pac-12 Network

HOW TO FOLLOW - Friday's Pac-12 matchup will be televised on the Pac-12 Network and via the Pac-12 Now app. Links for the broadcast and live stats can be found on the women's soccer schedule page at USCTrojans.com. In-game updates will also be available on Twitter by following @USC_Wsoccer.

SOCIAL MEDIA - Keep up with everything USC women's soccer this year by following the Trojans on all of their social media platforms. You can follow @USCWsoccer on Instagram and @USC_Wsoccer on Twitter, and like USC Women's Soccer on Facebook.

LAST WEEK - The Trojans faced No. 3 UCLA for a non-conference matchup in Westwood, playing to a hard-fought 2-2 draw. Tara McKeown scored twice in the game and narrowly missed a winner in OT, hitting the crossbar on a free kick.

SERIES VS. ARIZONA - USC leads 20-4-2. The Trojans have won six in a row, dating back to 2014. USC won 1-0 on the road in Tucson in 2019, getting a goal from Tara McKeown.

HOCKING CLIMBING THE LIST - Penelope Hocking continues to climb the USC career scoring list, with her four goals this season giving her a total of 36 for her career, putting her third on the Trojans' career list. The junior forward scored a pair of goals in the Trojans' 2-0 win over Oregon State earlier this year for the fifth multi-goal game of her career.

McKEOWN STILL ROLLING - Tara McKeown currently sits second in the Pac-12 and first on the team with five goals this year. She is sixth on USC's all-time scoring list with 38 career goals. The senior forward earned Pac-12 Player of the Week honors after scoring two goals in the Trojans' season-opening win over then-No. 10 BYU at home. McKeown was drafted eighth overall by the Washington Spirit in the 2021 NWSL Draft earlier this year.

MIDFIELD RETURNING TO FORM - Both of the Trojans' attacking midfielders, Savannah DeMelo and Croix Bethune missed last year with injury, but seem to be working their way into playing form this spring. The two share the team lead with three assists each, with DeMelo starting every game and Bethune starting five of seven this year.

2020-21 SEASON - Like all things, the 2020 women's soccer season was upended by the Covid-19 pandemic. The NCAA made the decision to move all fall championships to the spring back in August. The Trojans will play an abbreviated schedule this spring, with the NCAA College Cup being held May 13-17 in North Carolina. All players who compete this spring will not lose a season of eligibility and will still be able to play in the fall even if they are seniors.

KICKIN' IT IN THE COLI - The Trojans will play their 2020-21 spring season home games in the L.A. Memorial Coliseum. With the USC women's lacrosse team also playing on the Trojans typical home, McAlister Field, soccer's move to the Coliseum will reduce game conflicts, as well as wear and tear on the field.

MEDIA POLICY - Limited media members will be allowed to apply for credentials to USC women's soccer home games. Credentialed media members will only have access to a designated media area, and no in-person interviews will be allowed. All postgame and weekly interviews will be conducted virtually and upon request. Please contact Jacob Breems (Breems@usc.edu) for more media information and to apply for credentials.

A LOOK AT THE 2020-21 TROJANS

FORWARDS - The Trojans return one of the highest scoring duos in the nation in Tara McKeown and Penelope Hocking. McKeown (15) and Hocking (18) combined to score 33 of USC's 47 goals last season, finishing 4th and 2nd respectively in the Pac-12 scoring race. The Trojan frontline is also bolstered by a host of young talent in sophomore Hannah White and freshmen Angeles Escobar and Katie Roditis, as well as veteran transfer Jennifer Westendorf. White saw limited action last year before missing most of the year with an injury. Escobar comes to USC after posting a staggering 181 prep goals at Eastside HS in Lancaster, Calif., and Roditis comes to USC after a successful club career at Beach FC. Westendorf starred at Notre Dame before taking a year off and then transferring to USC. She posted 20 goals and 13 assists in three seasons with the Irish. Also looking to contribute up top and in the midfield will be sophomores Olufolasade Adamolekun and Savianna Gomez. Gomez led all Trojan freshmen last year with two goals and two assists, and Adamolekun posted two assists on her way to Pac-12 All-Freshman Team honors.

MIDFIELD - The USC midfield is as deep as ever thanks to both an influx of newcomers and several key returners coming off of redshirt seasons. Most notably back in the middle of the pitch will be USC's #10, Savannah DeMelo, who missed last year with

HEAD COACH KEIDANE MCALPINE

Career Record (at USC): 161-83-30 (95-26-13)

Head Coach Keidane McAlpine enters his seventh season at USC in 2021. In his six seasons at the helm for the Trojans, he has led USC back to the NCAA Tournament each year, including guiding the Trojans to the program's second NCAA Title in 2016 and third quarterfinal appearance in 2019.

In 2014, McAlpine's first season, the Trojans made the tournament for the first time since 2010. Then in 2015 he led the team to the program's third NCAA Sweet 16 appearance. Then, after just two full seasons of rebuilding the program, he led the program to the promised land, as they defeated No. 1-ranked West Virginia 3-1 in the 2016 Women's College Cup final. With the win, McAlpine put the team in elite company, as the first Pac-12 program to win two titles, and also just one of four programs nationally to win multiple titles in the sport at the time. The Trojans followed that up by making it to the second round of the NCAA Tournament in 2017 and in 2018 USC played its way back into the Sweet 16 for the third time in five years under McAlpine, falling to eventual NCAA Champions Florida State in PK's. During the 2019 season, USC reached as high as No. 2 in the national polls and made it's third ever run into the Elite 8, falling to eventual national runners-up North Carolina on the road.

Under McAlpine's guidance, USC has never missed the post-season, has won at least one NCAA Tournament game each of the last five years and has never finished worse than fourth in the Pac-12. The Trojans have averaged nearly 16 wins a season during his six-year tenure and own a 12-2-5 postseason record under his watch. McAlpine's teams have produced 10 All-American selections, 27 All-Conference selections, one Pac-12 Forward of the Year (Tara McKeown, 2019), one Pac-12 Defensive Player of the Year (Mandy Freeman, 2016), one Pac-12 Freshman of the Year (Penelope Hocking, 2018) and two Pac-12 Goalkeepers of the Year (Sammy Jo Prudhomme, 2016/Kaylie Collins, 2018). McAlpine and his staff also picked up United Soccer Coaches West Region Staff of the Year honors in 2018.

McAlpine, the 2013 Pac-12 and NSCAA Pacific Region Coach of the Year, was named the new head coach of the USC women's soccer team on Dec. 16, 2013. He came to Troy after serving the prior two seasons (2012-13) as head coach at Washington State, where he guided the Cougars to back-to-back NCAA Tournament appearances and a program-best second place finish in the Pac-12 in 2013.

Keidane [kuh-DAWN-ee] McAlpine [mik-AL-pine] is the fourth USC women's soccer head coach, replacing Ali Khosroshahin, who spent the seven years (2007-13) at Troy. In 2013 at Washington State, McAlpine's Cougars tied the program record for victories with a 14-3-4 mark. His team and players set or tied 27 school records. In his first season at WSU, McAlpine went 6-4-1 in Pac-12 play and finished up 12-6-2 overall in reaching the 2012 NCAA Tournament. In his two years in Pullman, McAlpine saw one Cougar named an NSCAA All-American and Pac-12 Player of the Year while picking up his own selection as the 2013 Pac-12 Coach of the Year. In those two years, McAlpine coached six Cougars to All-Pac-12 honor rolls.

Considered an offensive-minded coach, McAlpine showed his defensive savvy while at WSU as the Cougars finished 2013 ranked No. 7 in the nation with only 11 goals allowed. Prior to Washington State, McAlpine spent six years (2006-11) as an assistant at Auburn, helping the Tigers to NCAA appearances each season along with three SEC West titles. A 1997 graduate of Birmingham-Southern College, he spent three seasons (1998-2000) as an assistant women's coach before taking over as his alma mater's head women's coach in 2001 for the program's first season of NCAA competition following participation at the NAIA level. In 2004, McAlpine's fourth season as head coach at Birmingham-Southern, the team won the Big South championship and reached the NCAA Tournament, helping secure McAlpine honors as the Big South Coach of the Year. He helped develop 12 all-conference selections and a Big South Freshman of the Year recipient as the Panthers went 40-48-11 (460) in the first five seasons (2001-05) in NCAA play. As an assistant at BSC during the Panthers' NAIA years, he helped the team to its first NAIA Tournament in 2000. In all, McAlpine has spent seven seasons as a head coach (five at Birmingham-Southern, two at Washington State), having accumulated a 66-57-17 (.532) record at the helm of those two programs, with three NCAA appearances.

McAlpine has been active in Olympic Development Program for many years. He also worked in Region III as head coach for the U-13 group and was on the U-14 staff in the summer of 2010 after joining the U-13 staff in the summer of 2009. McAlpine holds a National "A" Coaching License from the United States Soccer Federation and a National Goalkeeping License. He was actively involved as a coach with the Alabama Youth Soccer Association Olympic Development Program and several club teams. In the summer of 2004, he was selected as a staff coach for the USYSA Region III squad.

McAlpine was a four-year starter at Birmingham-Southern and was team captain in 1996. During that season, the Panthers finished as runners-up in the NAIA Tournament after advancing to the semifinals the previous season. After graduation, McAlpine spent the 1999 season playing for the Tennessee Rhythm of the A League. A native of Huntsville, Ala., McAlpine earned a bachelor's degree in music business with a minor in computer science from Birmingham-Southern in 1997.

an injury. DeMelo, a perennial MAC Hermann Trophy candidate, has 15 assists and 13 goals in her two seasons at USC. Samantha Trinceri also looks to see time in the midfield after sitting last year out. She has two seasons and 29 games of experience under her belt prior to 2019. In addition to the aforementioned Adomolekun and Gomez, who saw time in the midfield last year, USC returns junior Madeline Vergura and sophomore Jaelyn Eisenhart, who played 15 and 18 games respectively last year, and the Trojans also have senior Samantha Bruder as an option, though she looks to play mainly on the backline. Eisenhart scored one goal and was named to the Pac-12 All-Freshman Team in 2019. She also is likely will see time as a defender. Looking forward to her first collegiate action in the midfield this year will be 2019 top recruit Croix Bethune, who missed last year with an injury. Freshmen Zoe Burns and Alexa Gonzalez round out the midfield for USC. Burns comes to Troy with U.S. Youth National Team development experience and Gonzalez was Cal South Player of the Year in 2019 for Legends FC.

BACKLINE - USC's defense has a host of new faces this year, but at least one constant anchoring the group in senior center back Jessica Haidet. Haidet comes into this season with 53 career games played and a total of 41 starts as a center back in the last two years. The only other defender on the roster to see game action on the backline in a USC jersey is Kaylin Martin, who played 21 games and made 16 starts in 2019 on her way to Pac-12 All-Freshman Team recognition. Adding some more experience to the mix, Samantha Bruder, who spent most of last season playing in the midfield, looks to transition to the back this year. Bruder has contributed all over the field during her USC career and currently has two goals and three assists in 46 career games. As mentioned in the midfield section, Jaelyn Eisenhart is expected to contribute to the defensive line as well. Though not having seen action in a USC uniform, the Trojans do have another collegiate veteran in the fold with Boston University transfer Lily Perryman. Perryman comes to USC after 20 games in two years at Boston. Three players from the Trojans' 2019 recruiting class redshirted last season, with Isabel Rolley, Lily Babalola and Savannah Kessler looking to make their collegiate debuts this spring. Joining USC from this season's recruiting class will be a pair of Hawaiian defenders in Anuhea Kane and Mary Shin, who both had decorated club and prep careers.

GOALKEEPERS UNION - The first name to know at a deep goalkeeper position for USC is senior standout Kaylie Collins. Collins, the 2018 Pac-12 Goalkeeper of the Year and All-

American, missed some time with injury last year, but comes in healthy this season and has 23 career shutouts on her resume. Junior Anna Smith stepped in when Collins missed time last year and helped USC not skip a beat, making 44 saves and posting three shutouts in 12 games. With Smith and Collins, the Trojans have two experienced and talented options in goal. Coming in behind the two veterans will be a pair of freshmen in Talia Grossman and Emily Rhinehart. Grossman was a standout at Menlo School in Atherton, Calif. and has international experience with the Australian U-19 squad. Rhinehart made her way to Troy from the East Coast where she posted a 0.22 GAA in prep play and 0.46 GAA in club play. Both Grossman and Rhinehart are versatile athletes, with Grossman playing high school baseball, and Rhinehart playing basketball and lacrosse.

LAST YEAR - The Trojans made another NCAA Tournament run last year, coming up just short of the College Cup. USC finished the 2019 season 17-5-1 overall, ending their campaign in the quarterfinals of the NCAA tournament against national runners-up North Carolina. USC reached as high as No. 2 in the national rankings in 2019 and made their sixth straight postseason appearance.

MAC HERMANN WATCH - Three Trojans were named to the MAC Hermann Trophy watch list this year, with Tara McKeown, Penelope Hocking and Savannah DeMelo all on the 54 player list. McKeown was a semifinalist for college soccer's top award last year and DeMelo has been on the watch list each of the last three seasons. USC has had at least a semifinalist for the award three of the last four years.

NWSL DRAFT - Two NWSL Drafts have passed since the Trojans last played a game and four USC players have been selected. Following the 2019 campaign, Natalie Jacobs was selected by the Washington Spirit with the 13th overall selection, and Julia Bingham was taken by the Chicago Red Stars 15th overall. Both went on to play for their respective teams the following season. This year's NWSL draft was unique in that selected players are still eligible to compete in both the spring and fall of 2021, if they choose. Tara McKeown was taken eight overall by the Spirit and Kaylie Collins was selected in the fourth round by the Orlando Pride. Both McKeown and Collins will play with the Trojans this spring.
